Redlegs Keep Little League Lead; Two Games Rained Out This Week

Rain caught the Little League games Monday and Tuesday nights, leaving two games which will have to be replayed. Scheduled were Dodgers vs Redlegs and Yankees vs Braves.

Through Saturday night, the Redlegs remained on top of the heap with eight wins and four losses. The Yankees are in second place with seven wins and six losses, while the Dodgers are in third place with six wins and six losses. The Brave have a four-win, nine loss record.

Games scheduled this week include Redlegs vs Braves Thursday, Yankees vs Dodgers Saturday, Yankees vs Redlegs Monday and Dodgers vs Braves Tuesday.

The end of the regular Little League schedule is Aug. 13.

YANKEES 9, REDLEGS 0

Behind the pitching of Harry Lisle, the Yankees downed the leading Redlegs 9-0 Thursday. The Yankees picked up 11 hits off Redleg Steve Burgess, while Lisle gave up only one run.

The game stayed 0-0 until the bottom half of the third inning, when Bill Phillips hit safely to first, and finished up with a run to give the Yankees a lead.

In the bottom half of the fourth, the Yankees caught fire and picked up eight runs. They were made by Lisle, Tommy Higgins, Preston Prichard, Bill Jarnagin, Phillips, Johnny Sikes and two by Wallace Busteed.

Lisle struck out nine Redlegs, while Burgess struck out only six Yankees.

DODGERS 20, BRAVES 1

The 9:30 curfew rule caught the Dodgers and Braves Saturday night and the game was called at the end of 5½ innings to give the Dodgers a 20-1 win. This was the first instance of the curfew rule ending a major league game. The rules state that no inning may begin after 9:30 p. m.

Dodger pitcher Bill Albracht gave up only three hits while gaining three strikeouts. The Braves used three pitchers, Ralph Irlbeck, who pitched the first inning and one out in the second; Bobby Dorris, who pitched two outs in the second and two in the third; and Bobby Chumley, who pitched one out in the third and three in the fourth. Irlbeck is the losing pitcher.

The Dodgers began scoring in the first inning, with Jim Callarman, Bill Ashley, John Byrd and John Sims making runs. In the second, Ashley, Byrd, Sims, John Brandon, Albracht, Gary Lee and Marion Hicks scored.

In the third, Byrd, Sims, Albracht, Lee, Hicks, Callarman and Ralph Kuehn scored. The lone Brave score came in the fourth inning when Chumley got on base with a two-bagger, and was knocked home by Eddie Pool, who also hit for two bases.

YANKEES LEAD MINOR LEAGUE

Standings in the minor league of the Randall County Little League show the Yankees on top after Saturday night's game, with eight wins and three losses.

In the second spot are the Redlegs and the Dodgers. The Reds have five wins and five losses while the Dodgers have six wins and six losses. The Braves have three wins and eight losses.

Five minor league games are scheduled to be replayed. They are Dodgers vs Redlegs, Redlegs vs Yankees, Braves vs Redlegs, Yankees vs Braves twice.

The Redlegs and the Yankees played to a 14-14 tie Thursday night in a game that was called because of the 7 p. m. curfew on minor league games. The game will have to be replayed.

Redleg scores were made by Tom Lair, Evans, Bucholz, Hines, Findley, Craig Bellah, McAtee, Cosby and Downing. Yankee scores were made by Dietz, McBroom, Rossi, Lowery, Pettitt, Mike Bellah, Fleming, Mark Lair, Olson, Lindsey and Yarbrough.

The second minor league game to go six full innings saw the Dodgers beat the Braves 4-3 Saturday night. Dodger pitcher James Risner gave up two hits and walked four in winning, while Braves' pitcher Paul Rountree gave up four hits and walked three in losing.

Scoring for the Dodgers were Tilley, Merchant, Gary Cook and Bill Brown. Scores for the Braves were made by Tom Langston, Freeman and Hawthorne.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 4 p. m. in Mount View Mausoleum at Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Allred was born May 13, 1901.

Survivors include his father, J. M. Allred Sr., Pasadena; two sisters, Mrs. Alma Warner, Pasadena, and Addie Allred, Dexter, N. M.; and three brothers, Lee Allred, Kinton, Okla., Mike Allred, Elk City, Okla., and J. M. Allred Jr., East Carvena, Calif.

Privacy for the Little Ones

Almost any time the City's swimming pool is open, you can find four or five or a half dozen of the youngest set splashing happily in the wading pool Sitting in the shade of the building there will be mothers keeping a sharp eye out, but the little ones splash and laugh and sit on the bottom as if they were lords and ladies of all they survey.

Annual Swim Show Set for Thursday With Beauty Contest, Surprise End

A water show with a beauty contest in the middle and a surprise ending has been planned for Thursday night by Jodie Mahan, manager of the city's swimming pool in Conner Park.

The show, which features all who have taken swimming lessons this summer, begins at 8 p. m. The public, as well as the parents and friends of those in the show, is invited.

First on the program will be exhibitions by the beginning classes — the five and six-year-olds taught by Mahan, six and seven-year-olds taught by Ronnie Mills and two classes of seven and eight-year-olds taught by Mahan.

Next will be a class of advanced beginners taught by Betty Sides. Two classes of intermediate swimmers taught by Mahan will be next.

The advanced class taught by Mills is next on the program. A diving exhibition will feature Rossi Bond, Ralph Cabe, Cathy Hinger and Karen Brewster. An unnamed clown will also entertain.

Members of the ladies night class will be entrants in the beauty contest, which is expected to be unusual. Judges will be Sheriff L. S. Johnston and Deputy Bill Wilson.

The ladies class, taught by Mills, Mahan and Miss Sides, will also exhibit their skill in swimming.

A surprise ending has been planned to cap the evening's entertainment.

USE NEARLY 13 MILLION

People in Canyon used almost 13 million gallons of water last week, according to figures at the pump station. The total usage from Tuesday, July 23, through Monday, July 29, was 12,800,000 gallons.

The highest day was July 23, when 2,076,700 gallons were pumped. Other days' usages were 1,992,100 on Wednesday, 1,438,400 Thursday, 1,774,200 Friday, 1,877,800 Saturday 1,727,600 Sunday and 1,913,200 Monday.

Equalization Board Sets Hearing Dates

The board of equalization for the City of Canyon will have public hearings beginning at 8 a. m. Aug. 7.

City Secretary Andy Boggs said notices were sent to only 72 property owners telling of changes in valuations. Most of these were on new construction, he said.

Members of the equalization board are Bill Downing, Jozach Byrd and Wesley Cox.

Mrs. C. A. Barker of Corpus Christi had a serious operation last Friday morning and is now doing as well as could be expected.

Petitions Call for Two Proposals; Polling Date Set for August 20

A $650,000 bond election for expansion of the Canyon water system was called for Aug. 20 in a special meeting of the city commission Tuesday night. The election was called after the commission was given petitions calling for the election that were signed by 198 voters. The petitions were circulated by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, and were presented by chamber president Delbert Lowes. The election as ordered by the commission will have two propositions.

One proposition will be for issuing $125,000 in tax bonds to be used to purchase water rights to the four sections of Mack Forrester land west of the city and to pay for exploration and test costs already incurred.

The other proposition would be for $525,000 in revenue bonds to be used for developing the Forrester site and bringing the water into Canyon.

If both propositions are passed by the voters, the city will use the plan of drilling three wells on the four sections, installing a gathering system, moving the Santa Fe water tank to the Forrester land and installing a 16-inch pipeline into town.

Circulation of the petition began last Thursday following approval by the chamber board of directors. The petition was an outgrowth of activities that began soon after the June 8 election for water system expansion bonds. The June 8 election was defeated.

The chamber selected a five-man committee after the election to study the city's water problems. The committee, composed of S. B. Orton, W. A. Warren, Levi Cole, Dr. R. A. Neblett and Dr. J. A. Hill, made several recommendations, among which were the drilling and testing of three wells on the Forrester land and a search for a temporary supply of water closer to town.

The commission drilled three eight-inch wells on the Forrester land and gave the wells standard 120-hour tests. All three produced approximately 1100 gallons per minute.

The commission also had two test holes drilled near the west city limits in a search for water. J. D. Kirkland Jr. of Farwell drilled the holes and estimated that one, drilled on Block 11, McGee and Hutson addition, would produce about 150 gallons a minute while the other, drilled on Block 10, Bomar H addition, would produce about 100 gallons a minute.

While the tests were underway on the wells at the Forrester land, delegations of citizens were invited to inspect the site. A week ago Sunday, more than 50 citizens went to the area.

The petitions stated that since the commission had followed the recommendations of the committee and since Canyon needs a larger supply of water, the commission should call an election to issue bonds for two propositions. One would be to purchase the water rights to the Forrester place and pay for exploration and testing costs.

The second proposition would be to issue bonds to develop the site and tie it into the city's system "1. Immediately, or 2. In the Future."

The date of Aug. 20 for the election was set because it is the last Tuesday before the end of summer school. The commission felt that many of the instructors and college workers would go on vacation as soon as school is out, and felt that the election should be held earlier so they can vote.

City Receives Test Hole Logs

Drilling logs of the two test holes drilled by the City Commission near the west city limits of Canyon were received last week by the commission.

The driller, J. D. Kirkland Jr. of Farwell, estimated that Test Hole No. 1, drilled on the west 50 feet of the northwest quarter of Block 11, McGee and Hutson, would produce approximately 150 gallons per minute from a tight brown-sand formation between 425 and 465 feet; and that Test Hole No. 2, drilled on Block 10, Bomar H, would produce approximately 100 gallons per minute from a hard yellow sand between 410 and 432 feet.

Test Hole No. 1 was drilled to a depth of 575 feet to redbed and Test Hole No. 2 hit redbed at 560 feet.

Kirkland said the formation which might produce water in Test Hole No. 1 was 40 feet thick and the formation in Test Hole No. 2 was about 22 feet thick.

The commission has received no recommendation on the test holes from the consulting engineer, Bill McMorries, of Amarillo.

Rites Held Monday For Mrs. Pond

Final rites for Mrs. Bertha May Pond were conducted Monday afternoon in the Gateway Church of Christ in Borger by Ernest McCoy, minister in Sweetwater, and Bob Wear, minister of the Central Church of Christ here, officiating.

Burial was in the White Deer Cemetery. Arrangements were under the charge of Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Pond, 77, died Saturday morning in Neblett Hospital, where she had been a patient for the past three years.

She had lived in the Borger area since 1914. Mrs. Pond was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include three sons, K. L., C. G. and C. H. Pond, all of Canyon; one daughter, Mrs. Oleta Pfeffer, Borger; two brothers, C. E. Terry and Foye Terry, both of Skellytown; a sister, Mrs. W. R. Howe, Kim, Colo.; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Reading Conference Closes Thursday

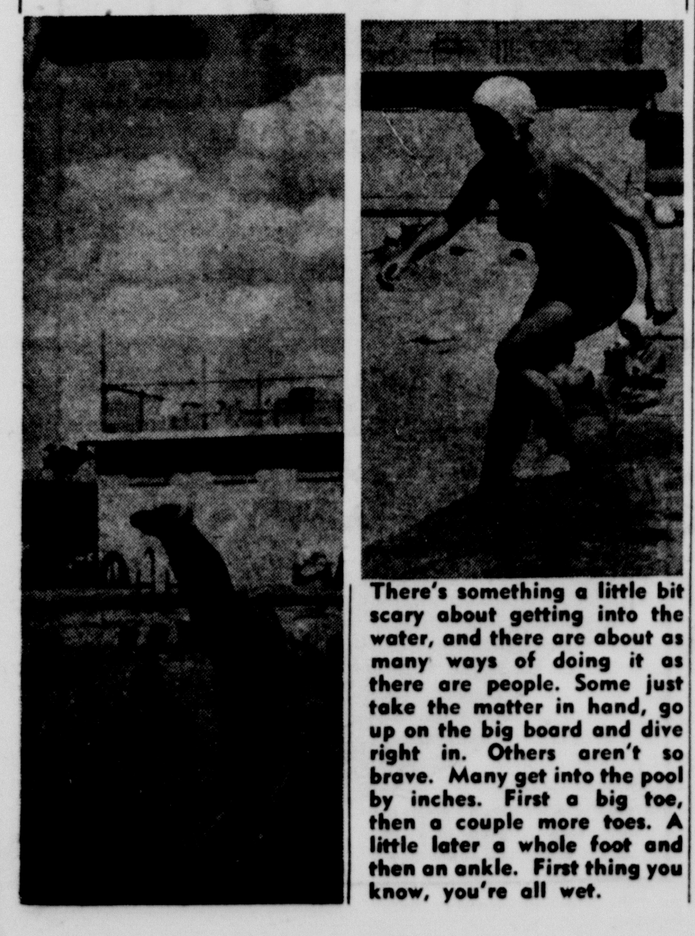
Final session of the fifth annual Reading Conference at West Texas State College will be held Thursday at 8:45 a. m. in the Administration Building auditorium.

Each of the three visiting consultants will speak during the day before the three-day conference closes at 2:15 p. m.

Dr. Agnella Gunn of Boston University will speak first on "Remedial Procedures in Teaching Reading," and Bill Martin, Jr., famed children's storyteller, will talk on "Children Like to Write."

At the final general assembly at 1 p. m., Dr. Anna D. Cordts of Rutgers University will speak on "What Teaching Has Taught Me." The conference closes with individual and group conferences.

This Way . . . Or This



There's something a little bit scary about getting into the water, and there are about as many ways of doing it as there are people. Some just take the matter in hand, go up on the big board and dive right in. Others aren't so brave. Many get into the pool by inches. First a big toe, then a couple more toes. A little later a whole foot and then an ankle. First thing you know, you're all wet.

Sure a Fine Trip, Except for Mosquitoes

By BILL CORNETTE

Here we are back home. We all made it back safely. We had a lot of fun, and it couldn't have been a better trip (except for the mosquitoes). Everybody was nice and none of us got sick or hurt.

Larry Brotherton was our crew leader, and he did a great job as leader of the Canyon crew. Chuck Nester was cook, and he cooked good pancakes. Roy Harris was navigation and sanitation man, and he got us there. I was tent man, and my assistant really worked. Harry Delashmutt, our advisor, was a lot of fun. Last but not least by any means, was our guide, Dave Trampe.

He was one of the most amazing boys I've ever known. He could pick up a canoe and carry it and a 50-lb. kettle across a portage and never stop. One of our crew members, Malcolm Carter, recently moved from Canyon to Amarillo, but was able to make the trip with us, and all of us were glad.

We picked up two other members for our crew, James Young from Lovington, New Mexico, and Steve Prescott from Amarillo. We all enjoyed their company on the trip.

The morning after we got to the canoe base, we got up at 5 a. m., and worked hard for six hours getting ready to leave on our venture. We had to pack our personals and get the things we were not going to take with us ready to put in a locker.

We finally did get started, though, and we surely did see all of the lake. At first we went from one side of the lake to the other, but after a couple of miles, we got started going fairly straight. We reached Prairie Portage in time to eat dinner, which was peanut butter sandwiches and "redeye" (redeye is about like our kool aid). We went through Canadian customs there and had our first portage, which was a rough one.

We camped at North Bay the first night. After we got our camp set up, we headed for the lake. The swimming up there was perfect. The lakes averaged about 300 to 400 feet deep, and the water was the same water we drank, so you can see how clean it was.

The next day we were back on the lakes paddling our little canoes, so we thought. By the end of that day we had covered about 15 miles and nine portages. After that first day, we didn't think our canoes were so little.

The second night we camped on Sarah Lake, and the next day started work on our 50-mile award. This award is one that is given to every person that spends at least 10 hours working on a conservation project and who makes a trip of at least 50 miles.

The campsite we had was not so good so we spent our time making two tables for it. We made good use of the tables that night by eating apple pies on them. Don Cloward went to sleep just before time for the pies, and naturally did not have much of an appetite when he woke up.

The fourth day out was our longest day. It went real fast, however, until we came to the rapids which the boys in the aluminum canoe tried to ride down. It looked like so much fun that David Arnold, Neal Lemons, and I just had to try it. The only thing wrong was that we didn't have canoes, and one doesn't just wade in the rapids!

By the fifth day we decided that it was time for another layover; so we spent the day sleeping, swimming, and fishing.

The next three days just flew by. During those days, Dave Trampe, our guide, made eight blueberry pies from berries we all picked, dumped Neal in the lake, and we all did some fishing. Our best fishermen turned out to be Larry Brotherton, Craig Hinger, and James Young, who all fought the mosquitoes just to get to fish.

One of the funniest things I saw on the trip happened when Harry, while trying to put a 100-lb. food pack in the canoe, lost his balance and fell in the water, carrying with him the food pack.

When we got back to the base, we cleaned up the equipment and took a "sonna." A "sonna" is a steam bath where one goes into a room which is filled with steam and stays as long as he can. He then takes a cold shower and goes back into the steam room. The temperature was about 160 degrees.

After we and the equipment were clean, we got our mail and went to one of the best suppers we had ever seen. We had pork chops, potatoes, two kinds of salad, milk, and cake.

The next morning we packed up and left for home. We stayed at New Ulm, Minn., the first night on our way home and went to church and then to the show. The second night we stayed at an army camp at Ft. Riley, Kan.

We arrived in Amarillo at 5:30 Tuesday afternoon. We were all sad to see the trip end, but we knew the memories would stay with us the rest of our lives.

I would like to thank all of the people that helped to make this trip the success that it was. I would like to give special thanks to Harry Delashmutt, our advisor, Dave Trampe, our guide, and Bruce Pfahl, our bus driver, but thanks are also due to every boy for being such great guys and good sports that they all helped to make the trip lots of fun and a good one to remember.

Back to the Experts

Some months back, a committee empowered to select the site for a national Cowboy Hall of Fame picked Oklahoma City for a million cash reasons after turning down various other spots, Canyon included.

At the time, the committee complimented the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and apparently thought it was the finest example of a regional museum that could be found. But the million cash reasons Oklahoma City gave led the committee to turn Canyon down as a site.

However, the people at the head of the Cowboy Hall of Fame recognize the experience and outstanding ability of those who run the Panhandle-Plains museum. Boone McClure, the director of the museum, has been invited to attend a meeting of the board of directors of the Cowboy Hall of Fame in August.

The Hall of Fame people want him pretty badly. They're offering to pay his expenses to the meeting.

What they need from Mr. McClure is this. They need someone to go over the plans for the planned museum. They're needing some expert advice about how the building should be built.

Mr. McClure said he is planning to attend the meeting, and help as he can.

We think it's good that the neighborliness of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society will allow the director of the museum to help others who are in need. And we think it's smart of the Cowboy Hall of Fame people to recognize experts when they see them.

Others See, Too

Not only is the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum recognized by the Cowboy Hall of Fame, but the United States Government knows a good thing, too.

Just last week, the museum shipped a collection of materials that is peculiar to this region and its history to the government for use as an exhibit in the new Hall of Congress in Berlin, Germany.

The exhibit, sponsored by the United States Information Agency, will be on "America, Her Land and Her People." Boone McClure picked out things for the exhibit which will not be in general use in Germany, so that the German people could see things which are different from theirs.

Sent for the exhibit were a saddle and a branding iron from the Wishbone ranch, both owned by John Matthews of Canyon; the King ranch Running W branding iron; a pair of home made spurs which belonged to R. Charlie Hamilton of Wichita Falls; a quirt and lariat made by George Brock of Paducah, other examples of which are for sale in the museum; and a pair of boots which belonged to Skinney Mooney of Amarillo.

The display, which opens Sept. 19, will be kept in the German building for three months.

But the museum, like most things and people, is not too well recognized close to home. Did you know that no one in Canyon has bothered to put up a sign on the Palo Duro Highway at the Washington intersection advertising the museum for those who have visited the canyon?

A couple of years ago, when the Washington street road was paved all the way into Amarillo, the Sunday attendance at the museum dropped about 200 people. Some of the loss can be attributed to the fact that many canyon visitors don't know the museum is in Canyon, we believe.

November's Election

Three proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution will be up for a vote by the people in November. This is an off-year for elections, and usually constitutional amendments are put up during general election years.

However these weren't. The election for them will be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, or Nov. 5.

The first is an amendment giving the legislature authority to levy taxes to provide a State Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation Fund for the officers and employees of the state, and gives the legislature the authority to set up rules and regulations for the operation of such a fund.

The second amendment would raise the maximum limits on monthly payments to needy aged persons and raised the limit on the total sum that may be made annually to needy aged, blind and children in the state.

The third amendment proposed to the people would provide for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create the Texas Water Development Fund, provide for the payment of the bonds, and create an agency to administer the fund.

Copies of the three proposed amendments will be run beginning this week in The Canyon News. May we suggest you read the proposals, make up your mind on whether they should be passed, and go to the polls Nov. 5 to register your opinion?

BOOMERANG

A railway director rebuked a ticket collector who allowed him to go through the gate without producing his pass.

"No matter if you do know who I am," he said, in reply to the collector's excuse. "I'm entitled to ride free only when I am traveling with that pass. You don't know whether I have it or not."

The collector, nettled into action, demanded to see the pass.

"Here, why — — well, I declare," stuttered the railway director, "I must have left it at the office."

"Then you'll have to pay your fare," replied the collector grimly.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

An experience to be prized: In the summer of '54 engaging in a story-telling spree on the King Ranch, during the Southwest Writers' Conference. After a barbecue on the famous ranch, the crowd of several hundred listened to several brilliant story-tellers and me.

One was a renowned lawyer-author, another a Mormon writer and another a New Mexico poet and fiction writer.

"The best-laid plans —"

A band of criminals was going to rob a bank. After the "joint had been cased" and each man assigned his place, the robbery was pulled and the outlaws made their getaway.

It so happened that two little children were playing nearby and they noticed an automobile which was parked for a good while. They wrote the license number in chalk on the sidewalk. Policemen learned of this and they rounded up the gang. The license number was that of the get-away car.

That was a classic retort that Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn baseball club, made when a surgeon who had charged $9,500 for an operation on a Dodger's hand said he was willing to leave the reasonableness of the charge up to a committee to doctors. O'Malley said, in effect, "We will take our chances with a jury made up of men who are used to receiving doctor bills instead of those who are in the business of sending them."

The poet wrote, "I am a part of all I have met." Wouldn't it have been more accurate, "All I have met is a part of me"? The places you've seen, the songs you have heard, the people you have known —all these have shaped your philosophy, colored your thinking, altered your life.

You've got to admire a man who may be down and out and who asks for money but offers to do some work in return. Last summer in Fort Worth, such an individual said to me, "Friend, I need money; do you know of any lawn that needs mowing?" We were in the Hotel Texas lobby at the time and I couldn't see a lawn in any direction but I admired his willingness to work and so handed him a quarter.

Ben Ezzell in the Canadian Record: "We once heard (J. Evetts) Haley's political views described as "neo-fascist" . . . but we think "neolithic" would be more apt. That old maverick is opposed to practically everything that's been done by government since the stone age."

Gene Alford in the Moore County News (Dumas): "Because we despise 'closed door' sessions as an ultimate threat to many of our basic freedoms . . . we think the Tech board of directors made a grave mistake in its actions . . . regardless of what the reasons for firing of those involved. The whole action to us smacks of badly placed influence on an administrative body which should place the educational interests of Texas and America above all else."

Paul Crume in the Dallas Morning News: "A couple of tourists with a wary eye out in foreign affairs have mailed copies of the London Express containing this letter signed by a John Smithers:

"'Holidaying at the seaside, I bought a packet of paper flags for my son's sand-castle. I was given a Union Jack, four flags depicting the quarters of the Royal Standard —and a sixth colourful ensign, which I was unable to identify. On inquiry, I was told that this was the Star of Texas.

"'Is it really necessary for the flag of an American State to fly over the beaches of England?'

"We don't see why Mr. Smithers is making an issue of this.

"We have never thought it was necessary for England to fly our flag on its beaches, but if England wants to, we don't mind."

Lynn Landrum in the Dallas Morning News: (discussing the Texas Tech wrangle): "No professor anywhere has the right to stick his political knife in somebody else and then run and hide under the skirts of academic freedom. He can't do it. He ought not to expect it."

Ernest Joiner in the Ralls Banner: "We hate to see some 8,000 students turned into jackasses through the actions of a minority of crackpots hand-picked by Allan Shivers to do just what they're doing now. We hate to see Texans, who foot the bills for this, denied their rights to know "what gives" with their own college. We don't think anything will ever be done about this outrage. The way educational institutions and honest professors have been kicked around since Joe McCarthy crawled out of the ooze is on the way to becoming an accepted facet of our existence. Personally, though, if Drugstore Cowboy Haley will park his brace of Gene Autry .45's, we still think we can whip hell out of him in a fair fistfight—Constitution or no Constitution."

Betty Williams in the County Wide News (Littlefield): "Ever since Karen took over the society desk this summer, she has written all sorts of little jewels for the sole purpose of shocking me.

"This week she came up with this shower story that I thought was worth printing:

"A shower was held all over Littlefield Thursday morning honoring all cotton, grain and other farm products. Approximately the entire population attended.

"The decorations for the occasion were clean wet crops, muddy roads, and many smiling faces. The hostess gift was plenty of sunshine and growth. Door prize will be awarded next fall."

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Story of the Little Boy Who Cried "Wolf" (1957 Version)

You have all heard the story of the little boy who was left to watch the sheep and was told to call out if a wolf appeared. He called out several times when there was no wolf, to the dismay of the men who came to help. When a wolf finally appeared his cries for help went unheeded, and as the story goes, the wolf ate all the sheep, and some people say the little boy.

We have a modern day version of this which would go something like this. Once upon a time there was a little boy named Val Peterson, who had a friend called the President. The President had many, many things to do. Included among these was the responsibility of developing a warning system to protect the American people against a Russian bear.

He thought the best way to do this would be to keep a sharp lookout, and whenever the bear attacked, he could warn the people so that they could scurry into safe places and protect themselves from the bear.

So, he bought a large whistle with a long string on it. He then sat his little friend, Val Peterson, by this whistle and told him that it was his duty to pull the string which would blow the whistle and warn the people that the Russian bear was coming.

Little boy Peterson was so fascinated with his job and so anxious to pull the string and blow the whistle that he devised a plan to blow the whistle even though there wasn't any Russian bear coming so that the people would scurry to places of safety. By this means he reasoned that a test could be run on whether or not there were enough places of safety for the people to scurry to and whether or not there were enough roads for the people to do the scurrying on.

He advertised this plan widely, and on the appointed day pulled the string, and lo and behold the whistle blew. However, much to his dismay, the people didn't scurry. For some reason the people didn't understand that they were supposed to run and hide because the little boy had blown the whistle.

However, the little boy was so enchanted by the sound of the whistle that he continued to pull the string each day, and it wasn't long before the people had become so accustomed to hearing the whistle it did not even cause comment.

In fact, the recent "Operation Alert," a mock air raid on the City of Washington and other major cities of the nation, designed to produce casualties of 54 million people, was executed. This operation even included the little boy's friend, Mr. President. He was provided with two helicopters which spirited him and the secret service men from the White House to a secret destination.

As you can imagine, this was a major exercise of such proportions as to draw the attention of many millions of people, especially those who were supposed to be killed. The only catch was that the people had heard the whistle so many times they paid no attention to it and did not know anything about "Operation Alert" until they read about it in the newspaper after they were dead or maimed.

This has caused a great deal of concern among those who conceived the plan, but it is rumored that a solution may have been found.

It has been suggested that, since the little boy has blown the whistle so many times and the people have become so used to hearing it, the only effective warning, should the Russians approach, would be for the little boy NOT to blow the whistle.

The little boy was promoted recently to be Ambassador to Denmark. The moral seems to be—if you want to be an Ambassador, you don't have to toot your own whistle—you can toot the government's.

I apologize if this seems somewhat facetious, because I fully realize the great need for a proper warning system in the event this country is invaded. However, I think it is foolish to continue programs which cost the taxpayers lots of money and which are not producing the results that should be produced.

I feel the plan or program should be weighed against the possible danger involved. I have never felt there was a great danger of this country being attacked by Russian planes dropping bombs or any other kind of bombs. There is no doubt that Russia could get some planes through to drop bombs on our major cities if she sent enough planes in the first place.

However, this is not a one-way street. Russia realizes this country has the potential to retaliate on a ratio of at least 10 to 1 should anyone in Russia become foolish enough to attack this country.

In the first place, the congested areas of Russia are so much more congested than in the United States that an equivolent bomb dropped on equivolent localities in both countries would do much more damage in Russia, in so far as taking human lives—the reason being that Russia has no residential districts.

The people live in living quarters set aside in huge apartment type buildings. These living quarters are so small in many instances that the manner in which people are crowded in these buildings resembles stacked cordwood.

The Russians have no private conveyances to speak of and would have no way in the world to depart from these congested areas should a war break out.

For these and many other reasons, I do not believe that we are on the verge of war with Russia, and I do not think we should continue to spend tremendous sums on programs that could be considerably better, much more efficiently handled, and at a much cheaper price. If we continue to maintain our defenses as we have in the past and do not relax our vigilance, our country will be here for a long, long time.

Mahle Death Details Erroneously Reported

Details of the death of S. M. Mahle, a resident of Canyon for 15 years, were erroneously reported in last week's Canyon News.

Mr. Mahle was visiting a daughter, Mrs. Walter Rice, and suffered a stroke about 11 days before his death.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Eva Mahle; two daughters, Mrs. Carl Hair, Canyon, and Mrs. Rice; eight sons, Olin, Clyde, Jerry, Linton, John, and Stewart Mahle, all of Canyon, Howard Mahle of Lubbock, and Claude Mahle, Bryan; a sister, Mrs. Cora White, Houston; a brother, Lamar Mahle, Bryan; 15 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Wayside News

The Rev. Joe Leatherwood filled the pulpit last Sunday morning. The union revival began last Friday night with the Rev. Taft Holloway of the Line Avenue Baptist Church of Amarillo doing the preaching and John Rakestraw of Plainview as song leader and Mrs. Guy Watson at the piano. The singer was delayed because of illness and death of his brother in Houston. Mrs. Willie Modisette led the singing in his absence.

Mrs. Bill Slover of Matador and Mrs. Billy Joe Slover of Denver City visited in the Cecil Reed home Wednesday.

Several from Wayside attended the old settlers' picnic at Claude July 26.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Franklin were dinner guests in the Jim Sluder home in Happy last Sunday. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ray Sluder and Philip and Windell Sluder, all of San Diego, Calif., and a girl friend, Lois Roe, of Lexington, Ky. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Louder Hagains, Linda Fay, Charles and Loretta and Phillis Sluder, all of Amarillo.

Mrs. Willie Modisette, Royce, Marian and Fay were business callers in Happy Thursday.

BE CAREFUL

The doorkeeper hurried down the steps of a club to open the car door, slipped, and rolled the last few steps.

The manager, who happened to be standing in the entrance, called out angrily: "For goodness' sakes, be more careful. People will think you're a member."

A review of articles in the current issue of The Rotarian, monthly magazine of Rotary International, was given Tuesday by Bob Wear for the Canyon Rotary Club.

He reviewed an article which appeared in a 1929 issue of the magazine, pointing out parallels with the present time.

Guests were John McFarland and V. V. Kniseley, who were introduced by J. B. Roberts.

Visiting Rotarians included Bob Lindsey Sr., Borger; Gilbert Davis, Hereford; Knox Kinard, Pampa; Otho Castle, Perryton; and Van H. Allm and Allen Early Jr., Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Thompson of Bismarck, N. D., visited recently his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LaVeral Thompson.

Band Members Play In Festival Group

Three West Texas State College Buffalo Band members will participate in the National Intercollegiate Band festival to be held in Salt Lake City in August.

The three, who will be seniors this fall, are Joe Mack Hill of Spearman, Bennie Gollehon of Dimmitt, and Joe Don Leach of Tulia.

Sponsored by Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma, national band fraternities for men and women, the Intercollegiate Band will be conducted by Lt. Col. William F. Santelmann, retired director of the U. S. Marine Band.

Four days of rehearsals, practice sessions and clinics will precede a final concert by the group. The festival opens Aug. 20 and closes Aug. 24.

Two West Texas State students attended the last bi-annual meeting of the Intercollegiate group in 1955 at Ohio State University.

BRITAIN'S PROBLEM

Here is an unexpected sidelight on evacuation. Three children are billeted on a bus route that passes their parents' home. One recent weekend their hostess had some business to do. The children went back — for one day only — to their mother.

On Monday morning the hostess had a letter. If the children came home again, wrote their mother, would she send them one at a time, "as the three together are rather too much for me!"

Washington News Letter

By LYNDON JOHNSON

"Come now, and let us reason together."

The debate on the so-called "civil rights" bill has been one of the most enlightening in Senate history.

The bill—written by Attorney General Herbert Brownell—came to us widely advertised as a "right to vote" bill. Thoughtful Senators trained in the law—Richard B. Russell, of Georgia, and Sam Ervin, of North Carolina—refused to take the advertising at face value. They discovered that it:

Resurrected a forgotten reconstruction statute passed in the days when Thaddeus Stevens was riding high.

Permitted the Attorney General to go into Federal courts and take out an injunction against anyone he considered to be infringing upon "civil rights."

Authorized the trial without jury of anyone accused of violating the injunction.

Authorized the President to call out the Army, the Navy and the militia to enforce the injunction.

In blunt language, this so-called "moderate" law would revive the blackest page in American history—the Reconstruction era.

Those backing the law claimed at first that these powers were not in the bill. But they had to back down under the weight of compelling arguments. They retreated to another line of defense. They insisted that the President would not "use" such powers.

This argument did not impress the Senate. Few members could see the wisdom of voting unwise powers to a President on the theory that he would save us from our own folly by inaction.

By a vote of 90 to 0, the Senate killed the "troops" section.

At the time this is written, some backers of the bill are looking for a "face saving" compromise. But the mood of the Senate is to reduce the measure to a right-to-vote bill—which is what it was supposed to be anyway.

I wish you would write me and give me any suggestions you have about issues and problems we face. I get strength from your counsel.

Buy, Build, Live in Canyon!

All married couples disagree at one time or another. But we've always figured that if they really want to, they can work out a sensible compromise. Family relations experts and such, we thought, are for folks who haven't got sense enough to settle their own problems.

And yet, as tempers rise with the temperature, even "happily married couples" sometimes hit a snag that an outsider could straighten out quickly. We spent an evening with several not long ago and saw that their bickerings, like many of our own, would have been simple for someone else to settle.

Take this couple: He has retired, but still goes down to morning conferences at the store because he likes to. A lifelong habit of rising at six still clings, so he is up and ready for coffee at what seems to his wife, who likes to sleep late, a silly hour.

"If he'd just wait till seven, I'd be glad to get up and fix his breakfast," she says. "There's no sense in it."

"But then I'd have to hurry," he retorts, "and that's not good."

Another couple arrived for supper thirty minutes late, putting the hostess to some inconvenience. The hubby, a johnny-on-the-spot boy, likes to get places early and his wife hates rushing. So once in awhile just to teach him a lesson, she slows down to a snail's pace.

The host couple disagreed over the best way to cool the house with their old-fashioned window fans. He closed windows, she opened them. Before long, the temperature was several degrees higher than normal because of their constant stewing.

All are simple little problems, easily worked out. But the feudin' will probably go on, because they're all much too "sensible" to need expert counsel.

Turkey Still on Top of Food List

COLLEGE STATION — Turkey, for the second straight month, is the featured food on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's August plentiful foods list.

Supplies of turkeys are abundant, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service, and consumers may look for excellent buys on these birds.

Fresh fish is another protein food chosen for the plentiful group, as August is in the height of the fishing season, both in Gulf waters and in inland streams. Supplies probably will vary with the region.

August plentiful foods also will include numerous vegetables, although some will be found more abundant in one region than in another. Fresh peaches and pears will be in excellent supply. Lemons and limes will continue on the USDA list.

Vegetable fats and oils and peanut butter are shelf items which will remain on the plentiful list through August.

NUMBER THREE ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 5, 1957.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 3 proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Texas adding a section to be known as Section 49-c of Article III, providing for the issuance and sale of bonds of the State of Texas to create the Texas Water Development Fund to provide financial assistance to certain political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas in the conservation and development of the water resources of the State; providing for the payment of such bonds; creating an agency to administer said Fund and to perform other duties prescribed by law; limiting the period during which financial assistance may be granted; and providing for the calling of an election and the publication and issuance of the proclamation therefor.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of Texas be amended by adding a new section thereto to be known as Section 49-c, as follows:

"Section 49-c. There is hereby created as an agency of the State of Texas the Texas Water Development Board to exercise such powers as necessary under this provision together with such other duties and restrictions as may be prescribed by law. The qualifications, compensation, and number of members of said Board shall be determined by law. They shall be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate in the manner and for such terms as may be prescribed by law.

"The Texas Water Development Board shall have the authority to provide for, issue and sell general obligation bonds of the State of Texas in an amount not to exceed One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000). The Legislature of Texas, upon two-thirds (2/3) vote of the elected Members of each House, may authorize the Board to issue additional bonds in an amount not exceeding One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000). The bonds authorized herein or permitted to be authorized by the Legislature shall be called 'Texas Water Development Bonds,' shall be executed in such form, denominations and upon such terms as may be prescribed by law, provided, however, that the bonds shall not bear more than four per cent (4%) interest per annum; they may be issued in such installments as the Board finds feasible and practical in accomplishing the purpose set forth herein.

"All moneys received from the sale of State bonds shall be deposited in a fund hereby created in the State Treasury to be known as the Texas Water Development Fund to be administered (without further appropriation) by the Texas Water Development Board in such manner as prescribed by law.

"Such fund shall be used only for the purpose of aiding or making funds available upon such terms and conditions as the Legislature may prescribe, to the various political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas including river authorities, conservation and reclamation districts and districts created or organized or authorized to be created or organized under Article XVI, Section 59 or Article III, Section 52, of this Constitution, interstate compact commissions to which the State of Texas is a party and municipal corporations, in the conservation and development of the water resources of this State, including the control, storing and preservation of its storm and flood waters and the waters of its rivers and streams, for all useful and lawful purposes by the acquisition, improvement, extension, or construction of dams, reservoirs and other water storage projects, including any system necessary for the transportation of water from storage to points of treatment and/or distribution, including facilities for transporting water therefrom to wholesale purchasers, or for any one or more of such purposes or methods.

"Any or all financial assistance as provided herein shall be repaid with interest upon such terms, conditions and manner of repayment as may be provided by law.

"While any of the bonds authorized by this provision or while any of the bonds that may be authorized by the Legislature under this provision, or any interest on any of such bonds, is outstanding and unpaid, there is hereby appropriated out of the first moneys coming into the Treasury in each fiscal year, not otherwise appropriated by this Constitution, an amount which is sufficient to pay the principal and interest on such bonds that mature or become due during such fiscal year, less the amount in the sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

"The Legislature may provide for the investment of moneys available in the Texas Water Development Fund, and the interest and sinking funds established for the payment of bonds issued by the Texas Water Development Board. Income from such investment shall be used for the purposes prescribed by the Legislature. The Legislature may also make appropriations from the General Revenue Fund for paying administrative expenses of the Board.

"From the moneys received by the Texas Water Development Board as repayment of principal for financial assistance or as interest thereon, there shall be deposited in the interest and sinking fund for the bonds authorized by this Section sufficient moneys to pay the interest and principal to become due during the ensuing year and sufficient to establish and maintain a reserve in said fund equal to the average annual principal and interest requirements on all outstanding bonds issued under this Section. If any year prior to December 31, 1982 moneys are received in excess of the foregoing requirements then such excess shall be deposited to the Texas Water Development Fund, and may be used for administrative expenses of the Board and for the same purposes and upon the same terms and conditions prescribed for the proceeds derived from the sale of such State bonds. No grant of financial assistance shall be made under the provisions of this Section after December 31, 1982, and all moneys thereafter received as repayment of principal for financial assistance or as interest thereon shall be deposited in the interest and sinking fund for the State bonds; except that such amount as may be required to meet the administrative expenses of the Board may be annually set aside; and provided, that after all State bonds have been fully paid with interest, or after there are on deposit in the interest and sinking fund sufficient moneys to pay all future maturities of principal and interest, additional moneys so received shall be deposited to the General Revenue Fund.

"All bonds issued hereunder shall after approval by the Attorney General, registration by the Comptroller of Public Accounts of the State of Texas, and delivery to the purchasers, be incontestable and shall constitute general obligations of the State of Texas under the Constitution of Texas.

"Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this amendment, such acts shall not be void by reason of their anticipatory nature."

Sec. 2. The foregoing amendment to the Constitution shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held on the 5th day of November, 1957, same being the 1st Tuesday after the 1st Monday in said November, 1957, at which election each ballot shall have printed thereon, the following words:

"FOR the amendment to the Constitution of Texas adding a new section to be known as Section 49-c of Article III, authorizing the issuance and sale of Two Hundred Million Dollars ($200,000,000) in bonds by the State of Texas to create the Texas Water Development Fund to provide financial assistance to certain political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas in the conservation and development of the water resources of the State."

"AGAINST the amendment to the Constitution of Texas adding a new section to be known as Section 49-c of Article III, authorizing the issuance and sale of Two Hundred Million Dollars ($200,000,000) in bonds by the State of Texas to create the Texas Water Development Fund to provide financial assistance to certain political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the State of Texas in the conservation and development of the water resources of the State."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. The expense of publication and election for such amendment shall be paid out of the proper appropriation made by law.

A big change is forthcoming in the operation of the largest law enforcement division of the State.

In keeping with recommendations of the Texas Research League, following a two-year study, the Texas Department of Public Safety will reorganize into six commands. Each command will be responsible to the central office in Austin.

Headquarters of the six regions will be in Lubbock, Corpus Christi, Waco, Houston, Dallas and Midland. Two Highway Patrol districts will be within each command.

Col. Homer Garrison will continue in the Austin office, in overall charge, with the rank of major.

Heading the various commands will be Capt. R. A. (Bob) Crowder (Lubbock); Chief Kent Odem (Corpus Christi); Chief W. J. Elliott (Waco); Capt. Glenn Rose (Houston); Capt. Guy Smith (Dallas); and Capt. W. E. Speir (Midland).

In addition to the regional reorganization, the new plan calls for four central divisions in Austin. Identification and intelligence services will be in charge of Chief Joel Tisdale. Motor vehicle records and services will be handled by Chief A. F. Temple. Personnel and staff services will be directed by Chief Glen McLaughlin. And inspection and planning will be headed by Chief G. W. Busby.

Colonel Garrison said the move would result in more efficient service and greater economies. "The Texas Rangers also will come under the regional grouping," Garrison stated. "A Ranger captain will be within each region, and responsible to the regional commander."

To Dam Or Not To Dam

A slice of the sort of troubles that plague Texas water development planning is shown in the current problems of the Brazos River Authority.

At Gov. Price Daniel's request, BRA directors held a statewide conference in Austin. Purpose: to reconcile the numerous conflicting views on how best to use the waters of the 1300-mile stream. Scores of people came and spoke their minds, but reconciliation was hard to find.

BRA directors suggest a six-dam program on the Brazos. It would include raising the level of Possum Kingdom Dam and constructing six more dams between it and Whitney Dam. Cost is estimated at $183,000,000. BRA hopes to borrow $50,000,000 from the federal government, get the rest from private bond sales. All would eventually be repaid, according to the plan, by revenue from sale of power and water.

But downstream water users and private power companies are dead set against the plan. Representatives of South Texas industrial and agricultural interests contend that paying for the dams would raise the price of water they use from $1 to $10 an acre foot. Private utility spokesmen say the dams would produce more power than anyone wants at a higher price than anyone will pay. And people living near Possum Kingdom fear that raising the dam level would flood their land.

Net result: the BRA plan, first launched 21 years ago, still has troubles.

Tempest at Tech

Gusts from a political-educational storm that swirled up out of the Plains blew into the State Capitol.

In a closed session, directors of Texas Tech at Lubbock fired Professors Byron R. Abernethy and Herbert M. Greenberg and abolished the job of Dr. Per Stensland. In explanation, Board Member J. Evetts Haley said Drs. Abernethy and Greenberg "did not measure up to academic standards." He called the adult education program in which Stensland was engaged "boondoggling."

But numerous observers attributed the dismissals to the professors' liberal political views as contrasted to the ultra-conservative platform on which Haley ran for governor last summer. There were protests and demands for reconsideration.

Governor Daniel made no comment on the professors, but said he thought the secret session was "a mistake." Tech President Dr. E. N. Jones predicted the board would have another session on the subject soon.

Capitol reporters compared the case with the 1944 furore that resulted when Dr. Homer Price Rainey was fired as University of Texas president.

Penny-Pinching Due

If the Legislature meets in special session this fall, members may have to ration every paper clip to get by financially.

State Treasury has hardly an extra nickel. There is, however, $460,000 appropriated last session for interim legislative expenses. But State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert has raised a question as to whether this could legally be used for special session expenses.

If the attorney general rules it cannot, legislators will have to amend the appropriation bill in order to get at the $460,000. Even so, it will be nip and tuck to get by. Previous special sessions have cost about $500,000.

Numerous economy measures have been proposed. Sen. David Ratliff suggested a swift three to six-day session with no pay. Rep. Louis Dugas proposed cutting the number of secretaries.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr is polling members as to whether they (1) favor a special session, (2) would serve without pay and (3) favor a tax to pay session costs.

Steep Grades Ahead

State Highway Department is taking a long look at its ambitious road-building, land-buying program and wondering if it can meet the cost.

"We have $13,500,000 in projects ready to go, but only $8,000,000 income that will be available," said State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer. He said inflation in prices of materials and labor may force a plan to build 48,000 miles of road in 13 years to be spread over 20 years instead.

One cost-cutting suggestion was to buy up right of way far in advance of construction in order to get land before it becomes developed and, hence, more expensive.

F-M Change Suggested

Texas' farm-to-market road system should pay its own way, suggests a Research League report.

Laws creating the F-M system earmark millions annually for construction of the roads, but none for maintenance. This has to come from regular Highway Department funds.

Eventual result, says the League report, will be more farm highways than needed and an "intolerable burden" of upkeep. It recommends the law be amended so that F-M construction funds could be used for upkeep as well.

Short Snorts

Trial of ex-Rep. James E. Cox of Conroe has been postponed until Oct. 7. Cox is charged with consenting to accept a bribe.

Texas Republicans take a dim view of the 55th Legislature. GOP's official "minority" report charged the lawmakers had "failed miserably" to cope with corruption, lobby control, loan sharks, congressional redistricting and fiscal problems. It blamed one-party control.

Texas Highway Commission announced the highest-in-history operating budget for the coming fiscal year — $72,498,650.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Conservation farming does not cost, it pays. So thinks William Grabbe, a cooperator with the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District, who farms in the north-west part of Randall County.

In the fall of 1953, Grabbe planted one half of a 120 acre field to rye. The rye made a good growth which was not harvested; the rye was plowed into the soil in the late spring of 1954.

The entire field was seeded to wheat in the fall of 1954, but the wheat did not make because of the drouth.

In the spring of 1955, Grabbe planted the whole field to hegari for bundle feed.

"On the 60 acres on which the rye was plowed under, that hegari grew as tall as a man and made good heads," explained Grabbe as he talked with a technician of the Soil Conservation Service from the Canyon office.

"I did not put my binder in the other half of the field. The hegari was only knee high with just a few spots headed out," said Grabbe.

The field was not irrigated and with the exception of the rye being plowed under on one-half the field, the whole 120 acres field was farmed in exactly the same way.

In addition to using rye as a cover crop for soil improvement, Grabbe is farming his dryland on the contour, plowing crop residues into the surface soil instead of burning them, and maintaining three diversion terraces to prevent soil erosion.

The supervisors of the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District think he is doing a good job of conservation farming. They urge every farmer and rancher in this district to contact the Soil Conservation Service for a complete soil and water conservation plan on their farms and ranches.

Hair clips, wave set, permanents, shampoo . . . these are articles important to every beauty conscious woman, but they are especially important to a Canyon cosmetologist whose job holds a never ending fascination for her.

Marie Cooper is the cosmetologist, and it's a name familiar for many years to Canyon women whose morale has been given a boost by her devotion to her work.

Doesn't she ever get tired of "fixing" people's hair, a person might ask? No, she doesn't. To her, cosmetology is constantly presenting new challenges — to be more creative and to be more artistic.

"I can get a lift if I can see that a woman is so much more proud of herself when she goes out than when she came in," said Marie.

Her fascination for people's hair started when she was very young. During her grade school and high school years she "loved to do everyone's hair" and was constantly experimenting.

A story she told me was of her family when they would be sitting around the large pot belly stove in the living room during the winter. Marie said she couldn't resist taking the poker, kept hot by the stove, and curling all the family's hair while they sat and read.

When Marie graduated from high school, she took one year of study at Baylor and for one year had a shop just off the campus of Baylor. Then she moved to Canyon, purchased a shop and has been in business here since.

Cosmetology is a good vocation for a woman, and for a man, too, Marie believes. As a member of the Official Hair Fashion Committee, the hair fashion authority of the American beauty profession, Marie has had opportunity to meet the male cosmetologists.

Surprisingly enough, Marie said most of the male cosmetologists were the athletic type. In the OHFC is one fellow who formerly played professional football. Another man holds a record as a rugged and brave fighter in World War II. Others have been outstanding athletes in football and in other sports.

There are still more women cosmetologists in America than men, but the ratio of men is increasing, Marie said. In Europe, the situation is switched. There have always been more male cosmetologists than female, but the ratio of women is on the increase.

Of the male cosmetologists Marie met during her trip to Europe, she thinks the Italian men were the best hair stylists and hair dressers. Maybe this is because of the belief, legend or no, that Italian men are the foremost lovers of women and feminine beauty.

There is no reason why a man of physical powers would not find the beauty profession rewarding and suitable. Being a cosmetologist requires much more physical stamina than the layman realizes.

To the young woman or man considering cosmetology, this is important to know. From her experience, Marie knows that there is much standing and weak arches are no asset. An added disadvantage is much standing in one position.

What other advice does Marie have to offer potential cosmetologists? She said, "You have to like it to be really good." Creativeness is important to the cosmetologist and in the truly good one there is much of the artist.

The cosmetologist should be well groomed, neat at all times, and have a pleasing personality. Also she must be able to sense her client's personality and talk of that which will please and make at ease the client.

Just how does the cosmetologist judge a client's personality upon first sight? Marie said one is able to know much about a person by the way they talk, the jewelry they wear, their posture and certain mannerisms.

The cosmetologist then strives to dress the client's hair in a style that not only fits the structure of the body, but the personality and the activity of the person.

But—back to the to-be-cosmetologist. To be a cosmetologist, the person must attend a six months' beauty course and then take a state examination. From then on, the license is hers. (I am just too used to thinking of women cosmetologists).

At the beauty school, she will study anatomy, hair styling, sanitation, cosmetics and electricity. It's not an easy course, and some fail to pass the examination. Those who fail have the opportunity to repeat the course.

Some principles of chemistry are brought into the initial beauty course, and at a refresher beauty course Marie took at Maryland University, she had a regular course in chemistry. She believes that in the future, with the increase in new products to be used the study of chemistry will most likely be added to the required beauty course.

What about the salary? A cosmetologist does not receive a set salary in a salon. Her income is on a percentage basis, and the larger her clientele, the larger her income and prestige.

To some this might seem a great disadvantage, but it does keep the standard of workmanship above par. And as Marie said, a lower standard of workmanship is bad in any field of work, but would be worse in this one than in many others.

Another ability a cosmetologist must have is the ability to make her client relax. This is vitally important because a hair set put in when the woman is nervous, has a headache or is upset or ill will be out of timing when she does relax and will not stay in as well.

This is one reason why it is not wise for a woman to bring her children with her to the beauty shop, Marie said. The woman cannot completely relax because she has to keep up with the youngsters and not only will her hair set not be what it could have been, but she will have lost the therapeutic value of relaxation and morale boosting which the hour at the beauty salon can give.

The current demand for cosmetologists? Demands are now being met. But, Marie still encourages the woman or man interested to take a beauty course.

☆ ☆ ☆

What's the hair style for this fall? It's called the "Siren Lift," a style reminiscent of the '20s. Although bangs play an important part in this style, it is adaptable to all ages, and it's easy to care for, Marie said.

Hair styles this fall will be shorter, have a little more curl with a puffed and bang effect depending on the individual.

☆ ☆ ☆

And I end on a joke told to me by Marie.

Said one friend to another: "Every time I get down in the dumps, I have my hair fixed." Said second friend to first friend: "I wondered where you got your hair fixed."

Tormenting Is Fun

If he is at the right age, there's nothing a young boy enjoys more than tormenting the girls. A swimming pool provides a perfect place for a gang of boys to to corner a group of girls and do a good job of tormenting by splashing water in their faces.

'Goodbye, My Fancy' Continues Run At Branding Iron Tonight, Thursday

Second performance of Fay Kanin's three-act comedy, "Goodbye, My Fancy," is slated Wednesday at 8:15 p. m. in West Texas State College's Branding Iron Theatre. Closing out the summer theatre season, the play will continue through Saturday night.

Directed by Dr. Lowell Matson, visiting director from Purdue University, the sophisticated comedy will star Loretta Pattillos of Amarillo, Dr. Wendell Cain of WT's faculty, Brenda Solnick of Amarillo, Dolly Lynch of Amarillo, and John Lee Welton of Lefors.

Admission is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. Reservations for any night's performance may be made through the WT speech department.

"Goodbye, My Fancy" is the who returns to her old school to be awarded an honorary degree. Since her wartime experiences in Europe, she has devoted herself to the task of acquainting people with the horrors of war. She brings a documentary movie with her to be shown to the fresh young graduates.

The movie is considered harsh and improper by the trustees, however, so Miss Agatha Reed (Mrs. Pattillos) has a fight on her hands. The conflict exposes the president as a spineless and irresolute figure, instead of the upstanding and outspoken professor with whom Miss Reed thought she had been in love for so many years.

The disenchantment with the president (Dr. Cain) drives her into the arms of a wartime acquaintance who, as a Life photographer, has come to cover the event.

The play will be given in intimate, or theatre-in-the-round, style.

McClure To Help Hall of Fame

C. Boone McClure, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, will be a consultant at a meeting of the directors of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Museum Thursday in Oklahoma City.

McClure was invited to act in an advisory capacity as the directors consider final plans for the construction of the new museum. The final architect's plans were secured through a nationwide contest, and work on the building to house the Hall of Fame is expected to begin soon.

The Canyon museum director has been asked to make suggestions concerning the structure. He attended a meeting of the directors in December, 1955, as a consultant on plans before the contest among architects was started.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin and children of Abilene are visiting her parents, the John Lills.

Fifth Annual West Texas Music Camp To Get Underway Monday

When some 300 Panhandle senior and junior high school musicians begin the daily routine of the fifth annual West Texas Music Camp Monday at West Texas State College, they will have five of the nation's best known musicians as instructors.

Students will arrive here Sunday to settle into dormitory rooms, audition for spots in the camp's four bands, and to sign up for various classes. Registration will start at 1:30 p. m., and classwork, section rehearsals and drills will get underway Monday.

Back to teach twirling for the second year will be Sonie Rogers of Watervliet, Mich., "Miss Majorette of America" in 1953. Another instructor back is Jack Lee, director of the University of Arizona bands who taught here during the camp's first two years.

Directing the camp's first-string band, the Symphonic Band, will be Harold B. Bachman, professor of music and director of bands at the University of Florida. Dr. Joe L. Haddon, supervisor of instrumental music at Midland High School, will conduct the Junior High Band.

Conducting the camp choir, which usually includes about 100 voices, will be L. N. "Cy" Perkins, professor of music and director of the Men's Glee Club at Oklahoma State University.

The two-weeks camp will close Aug. 16 with a "Grand Finale Concert," which will feature the three performing bands, the choir, and twirlers. Programs of recreation and entertainment, most of which are open to the public, are planned every night during the camp.

The music camp student's day will open at 6:30 a. m. with breakfast, classes at 7:30 a. m., and close at 5 p. m. with dinner. Nightly programs and parties are scheduled at 8 p. m.

Miss Rogers, who retired from competition in twirling in 1953 at the age of 19, won nearly every national twirling title during her career. She took the Junior National Twirling Championship for two years, the senior title in 1953, the championship of the Chicagoland Music Festival for four consecutive years, and five state championships.

Since retiring from competition, she has taught at most of the nation's top twirling clinics, has appeared as guest twirler throughout the nation, and has given exhibitions on television, professional football games, and other civic and sports events.

Lee, who earned fame as director of the University of Michigan Marching Band, has been at Arizona since 1952. He earned his B.S. and M.A. degrees at Ohio State University. Lee is a composer for band and orchestra and has published several programs for football shows.

Bachman, widely known for his publications for band methods, has been director of bands at Florida since 1948, when he retired from the United States Army.

Bachman is a graduate of the North Dakota Agricultural College, where, during his junior year, he was acting band director. While still a student there he taught in small towns in North Dakota and Minnesota. He served in World War I as band leader of the 116th Engineer Band with the Sunset Division. After the war, he organized and conducted a professional concert band, which played throughout the nation as Bachman's Million Dollar Band.

From 1935 until entering the Army in World War II, Bachman was director of the band at the University of Chicago. He was also advisor on school music materials for the Educational Music Bureau of Chicago. For ten summers he taught special classes for high school and college band leaders at the University of Idaho.

At the beginning of World War II, Bachman was commissioned a captain and was assigned as supervisor of music in the 6th Service Command. He was special services officer in the South Pacific and Okinawa, in charge of all recreational activities. He retired from the Army as Lieutenant Colonel.

Perkins has taught at Oklahoma State University (A&M) for the past 20 years. He has a diploma in sacred music from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, a B.S. in Music from Oklahoma City University, and an M.A. from Oklahoma A&M.

Haddon taught at Ozona, Slaton, Lubbock, Big Spring, Texas Tech and Columbia University before going to Midland. He holds the B.S. and M.E. degrees from Texas Tech, the B.A., M.A., and Ed.D from Teachers College, Columbia University.
